Node.js Software Engineer Code Test: GitHub API

Using the GitHub API (<https://developer.github.com/v3>), we ask that you build a Node.js app that displays info for the open pull requests in a GitHub repository. The interface can take whatever form you like and should accept a repository URL, for example <https://github.com/hapijs/hapi>. It should display a list of open pull requests along with the number of commits in that PR, the number of comments on the PR, and the user that opened it.
